COMPOSER'S NOTES
Prestidigitation is a term used in the art of magic that refers to "sleight of hand," a fundamental technique used by magicians, especially in close-up magic which includes card magic and coin magic. (The "digit..." component of the word "prestidigitation" fittingly refers to the fingers of the hand.) In a different sense, the term prestidigitation could also be used to describe the art of handbell ringing, including more visual handbell techniques such as weaving and traveling four-in-hand that can mirror the concept of sleight of hand to a handbell ringer, which oftentimes looks visually mystifying to a person or audience member watching a handbell ensemble or handbell soloist work some magical magic!
This original handbell composition aptly entitled Prestidigitation is a sonic tribute to the art of magic and all of its compositional elements and forms. The various section headings in the piece, including "Levitation," "Pepper's Ghost," "Equivocation," "Palming," "Metamorphosis," "Miser's Dream," "Misdirection," "Quick-Change," and "The Escape," are just a small sample of terms used in magic, with some terms representing fundamental magic techniques and others representing names of specific types of magic acts. Each heading is musically represented by slightly different melodic themes throughout the piece, with the "Equivocation" theme serving as the foundational melody from which each theme is musically derived. (Equivocation is a concept in magic that is more commonly known as a "force" or "Magician's Choice," which is often used in conjunction with sleight of hand during a magic act or routine.)

Michael Glasgow brings a lush and beautifully elegant treatment to "Jesus Loves Me". This reflective and prayerful setting is a departure from the jauntier feel often associated with the tune. Scored for 2-3 and 3-6 octaves, the arrangement is designed with both octave versions in the same score which may be played separately or together. This staple of the handbell repertoire is an accessible Level 2+, perfect for worship or festival.
